

Old Pulteney raises a glass to Britain's Maritime Heroes

Have you single handedly raised money for your sailing club or charity? Have you helped make a difference in your club? Or perhaps you've achieved sailing greatness in a national competition?

Renowned as the Maritime Malt, Old Pulteney Single Malt Scotch Whisky is delighted to launch The Old Pulteney Maritime Heroes Awards for a second consecutive year. The awards, which received great acclaim last year, invites UK Sailing clubs to nominate inspiring individuals to uncover the nation's sailing stars.

The annual awards scheme is specifically tailored to recognise and reward the outstanding passion, commitment and achievements within British maritime communities at both a local and national level. To launch the second year of awards, Old Pulteney wants to hear about any inspirational, outstanding or unsung heroes from the UK's sailing communities.

To launch The Maritime Hero Awards, Old Pulteney will be corresponding with Sailing Club Secretaries and encouraging them to nominate up to three club members who they feel have excelled, and deserve recognition within the following three award categories:

- Club Service – for a member who has worked endlessly to contribute to their club.
- Bravery – for demonstrating a remarkable level of bravery, or perhaps by supporting another club member in need.
- Sailing Achievement – for a member who has achieved sailing greatness at local, national or international levels.

In September of this year thirty winners will be announced as contenders in the semi finals by our maritime judging panel. The panel will consist of Alistair Vallance, editor of Scotland's biggest sailing magazine, Yachting Life and a panel of Old Pulteney brand representatives. In November, three semi finalist winners will each win a £1,000 cash prize for their Sailing Club, a bottle of Old Pulteney 17 Year Old and a commemorative trophy. In December the second ever Old Pulteney Maritime Hero will be selected from the three finalists and announced to media. They will be presented with an additional £1,000 personal cash prize, a winner's trophy and a much sought after bottle of Old Pulteney 21 Year Old, which was crowned 'World's Best Whisky' in Jim Murray's prestigious 2012 Whisky Bible.
